

A Plant Obsession - by Jimi Blake

24th November 7pm

A virtual Zoom talk organised by Hampshire Plant Heritage Group.

---

Jimi Blake has spent the last 25 years discovering stand-out plants which he grows in dynamic and innovative ways at the fabulous Hunting Brook Gardens near Dublin in Ireland.

Hampshire Plant Heritage Group invite you to a Zoom Talk by Jimi Blake on 24th November 2020 at 7pm.

Tickets are free for Plant Heritage members and are £5 for others who would like to attend.

Please use the following link to book a ticket: Press Ctrl+Click to book a ticket

A short video of the garden can be found at this link:

Press Ctrl+Click to watch the Hunting Brook Garden Video Clip

JIMI BLAKE trained in the National Botanic Gardens, Dublin, and was subsequently appointed Head Gardener at Airfield House, Dublin, where he resuscitated a large Victorian garden to its former glory enabling the public to enjoy a lost gem. After twelve years at Airfield, Jimi sought a new challenge and established “Hunting Brook Gardens” on the family estate. His ambition was to grow and expand his plant collection and share his passion and knowledge with the public. He envisaged using his garden as a classroom and to showcase a diverse range planting design. Jimi has realised his dream of a dynamic and innovative garden always pushing the boundaries outwards and Hunting Brook is now known as Ireland’s most exciting and fascinating garden.